2	Food	Resources	Feeding 9 Billion	2014	12.21	YouTube 245,000 views	By 2050 there will be 9 billion people on the planet - but will there be enough food for everyone? Food security expert Dr Evan Fraser guides you through a whiteboard presentation of his solution to the Global Food Crisis.	Evan Fraser		YouTube	https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=raSHAqV8K9c
2	Food	Health	Rise in Obesity	2015	3.56	YouTube 3,500 views	According to the World Health Organization, obesity has nearly doubled since 1980. Sixty-five percent of the world's population lives in countries where being overweight or obese accounts for higher mortality than being underweight or malnourished. In the United Kingdom, obesity is a rapidly growing issue, showing no signs of slowing down. The Foresight Report, conducted by the UK government, concluded that half the population could be obese by 2050, while independent organizations, such as the National Obesity Forum, predict that number will be higher. The reports estimate that the obese population could cost the Nation Health Service (NHS) as much as 10 billion British pounds ($16 billion) by 2050. This slideshow examines the growing debate as to the causes of obesity. And while pressure mounts to find a resolution, London is slowly moving towards a healthier lifestyle. Other areas of the UK, however, tell a much different story.	Pulitzer Centre		YouTube	https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=VJ9fUhrGvc
2	Food	Health	How Junk Food marketeers target our kids - myth busters	2013	6.24	YouTube 200,000 views	Big Food spends close to $2 billion every year telling kids and teens what's cool to eat through advertising, promotions, and sponsorships. Meanwhile, across the country, fast-food chains are crowding out grocery stores and supermarkets, narrowing the healthy food choices available. Scary? It sure is, but together, we can work to curb this predatory marketing and stand up for real food. We believe that marketing targeting to children and teenagers is a public health crisis.
