(or just drink and listen!)

Is it too late to save our planet? Extinction Rebellion is the global movement that's right on our doorstep – dare you rise to the challenge?

To avert climate breakdown and minimise species extinction, Extinction Rebellion (XR) is an international movement that advocates radical change through non-violent resistance.

This grassroots movement is unusual in that a large number of activists have pledged to be arrested and are prepared to go to prison.

Ian Bray, one of XR's founders, lives in Huddersfield and is coming along to describe how governments have let us all down and to discuss why this is the most urgent issue of all time
